

Please leave our law alone it's great. Since I signed up for the do not call list I have more peaceful time I arriving home from work. No one wants to be annoyed after a hard day at work. This is my time, and my life and I would like to enjoy spending time with my family versus answering an non-productive phone call. Once again our law is the toughest because New Jersey wants it that way. Wait here's an idea outsource these jobs just like all the others, and bring back more respected career choices to the country this way gross captial income per household increases and maybe just maybe people would call themselves to purchase items instead having them forced down their throats.
